About SITGEC

The Italian Society of Cell and Gene Therapy was founded in March 2024 to become a lively space for scientific collaborations, growth and strategic initiatives capturing the most promising scientific and technological innovations. The society is open to basic and clinical researchers, especially young people, and industry partners working in the sector, with the ultimate goal of expanding and accelerating the development of effective and safe therapies for the many patients who need them.

As SITGEC approaches its second anniversary in 2026, the society's voice in supporting the development of gene and cell therapy in Italy is growing ever louder.

Annual Meeting 2026

We invite you to join us at our annual meeting at the San Raffaele Congress Center in Milan on 17-18 July 2026.

The meeting is being held to coincide with the 6th International Conference on Lymphocyte Engineering on the theme of 'Advancing Immune-gene therapy across diseases', which takes place on 15-17 July, enabling delegates and institutions to benefit from attending both events.

More information on the ICLE conference can be found at <https://lymphocyte.kenes.com/>.

Why partner with us?

Italy has a long and illustrious pedigree in gene and cell therapy and, by partnering with SITGEC, you will benefit from excellent networking opportunities to strengthen existing relationships and form new collaborations.

Being a partner in our meetings gives you access to delegates working at the forefront of the field, including academics, clinicians, industry experts, post-doctoral researchers and students.

Scientific programme

The draft scientific programme will be available on the SITGEC website in the coming weeks.

Sponsorship packages

You will find a summary of sponsorship packages on the following page. However, if you are also sponsoring the ICLE conference separately, please contact us to extend your sponsorship to the SITGEC meeting at a preferential rate.
